AROUND THE TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. A. Gortz were visitors at Castelnau on Easter Monday.

Mr. M. Weber and Mrs. J. Shantz visited Calgary on Saturday last.

Mr. Macgregor of Calgary was visiting with Mr. W. Gaudet on Friday last.

Miss Daisy Colvin and Miss Reitzel were visitors at Calgary on Saturday.

Clarence Finkbeiner came up from Calgary on Saturday to spend the holidays.

Mrs. A. Bossenberry of Calgary was visiting friends in Didsbury over the Easter holidays.

Dr. T. Gadde and Mrs. A. E. Welsh of Banffshire were Easter visitors with Mr. and Mrs. U. M. Gadde.

Coun. B. A. St. Clair was called to Red Oak, Iowa, at the beginning of the week. His mother is seriously ill.

W. K. Vogel has bought out the Photo Studio at Olds and will in future divide his time between Didsbury and Olds.

Mr. Alex Lobesinger of the Edmonton Journal was visiting friends in Didsbury on Good Friday and Saturday.

All the Didsbury School teachers excepting the principal are attending the School Teachers Convention at Edmonton.

W. Rupp of Kansas has returned to Didsbury and expects to stay through the summer with his uncle, Mr. W. Rupp.

Mr. R. LaBlanc of Mayton has taken over the Cloverhill Creamery and would like to meet all creamery men in the district.

W. A. Miller has accepted a position with Reitzel & Kalbfleisch, general merchants, and took over his new duties last week.

Don't forget the auction sale of goods belonging to Muessner, Finkbeiner and Gugin at the official parsonage on Monday next.

The Government telephone department have a large gang of men in town putting up new poles and installing 7,000 feet of heavy cable which contains over two hundred telephone wires.

Mr. Dave Witwer of Aome is visiting Norman Weicker for a few days. Dave is one of Didsbury's old timers and has not been here for some little time and consequently quite a little change in the town.

Mr. J. Hennick, an old resident of Didsbury but lately of Wainwright, Alta., was in town for a few days this week visiting old friends. John is on his way to B. C. looking for pasture green and new.

How's this for Didsbury and reasonable prices? Duerer & Bros., the Didsbury furniture dealers, shipped over a carload of furniture to Calgary people last week. On inquiry it was learned that these people had bought better furniture at much less cost to choose from and also because prices were much more reasonable than in Calgary. Moral—Compare local prices with outside prices before buying.

A New Depart- ment

We wish to announce to our many readers that we have made arrangements with the Sovereign Grain Co. of Calgary to publish the latest grain market reports each week; these reports will be corrected the last thing before going to press on Wednesday afternoons and should be of great value to all who are interested in the grain markets.

Reciprocity and the Farmer

FEAR, BARLEY AND OATS

Though Canada's sales of wheat to the United States may not increase, except in the off grades, it is reasonably certain that our exports of barley and oats will expand considerably. Flax seed entering the United States has suffered a loss of twenty-five cents a bushel, but in spite of that Canada last year sold the United States flaxseed to the value of $2,041,000. Now that flaxseed is put on the free list, those figures should be materially increased. The United States is one of the best markets in the world for flaxseed, and flax is the one crop which may be grown on a western farm during its first season. Moreover, flax is one of the crops which the western farmer likes to grow in order to kill the weeds which are propagated under continuous wheat growing.

There was a time when barley was sold by Canada to the United States in enormous quantities. When the United States imposed a duty of thirty cents a bushel on this commodity that was automatically stopped, and last year Canada sold less than $2,000 worth to that country.

The thirty cents a bushel duty has kept the price of barley about twenty-five cents a bushel lower in Canada than in the United States. If the proposed arrangement goes through and barley put on the free list, barley will be sold at the price the price in Canada will at once jump up almost to the extent of the present duty, and the acreage under cultivation in this country will be materially increased. This will benefit Eastern Canada as well as Western Canada. Barley can be grown in certain sections of the West when wheat cannot. In the new portions of Saskatchewan and Alberta the soil must be cultivated three or four years over a considerable area before the danger of early frost is eliminated. The loosening up of the soil enables the heat of the sun to get farther down in the earth, and when a cold August night occurs this heat returns to the air in sufficient quantities to counteract the frost, which otherwise might do great damage. During these earlier years barley can be grown with confidence on new soil. It will grow and mature and ripen in twenty-five days less than wheat, and it is not nearly so susceptible to frost. Senator T. O. Davis, who has spent many years in the West, claims that free barley will extend the grain growing belt of the Western provinces two hundred miles farther north.

What has been said of barley applies also to oats. When the duty of fifteen cents a bushel is removed Canada will sell large quantities of oats to the United States. Last year the exports were valued at $3,650,000.

HORSES AND CATTLE

Last year Canada sold to the States cattle to the value of $100,000, horses to the value of $148,000, swine $6,000, sheep $527,000, and all other animals $108,000. The duty on these varied to 25 per cent, but under the proposed arrangement they will be free.

It seems rather difficult to discover just what the effect of the changes will be in each class, but it is reasonable to assume that the export will increase. Just now Canada is shipping

Athletic World

The April number of that interesting Canadian publication, "The Athletic World," has just reached this office.

A periodical of its size and a glance at the many illustrations give the proof that in the covering not only of Canadian but also of international sports and general pastimes, this magazine is no less than fulfilling past promises and marking out a future of certain and unparallelled success as a national periodical for Canadian followers of sport of all sorts.

It was not long after breakfast on the following morning that Verner walked into Gordon's rooms with a new proposal.

"I have been thinking out this considerably, as you know, the whole time you had your adventure the other night is empty, it has occurred to me, perhaps, it may be to let. It so were to let, I see no objection in the characters of prospective tenants. What I want to do is to ascertain if possible the name of the owner of the house."

"I am ready for you now."

It was some time before the friends got on the right track, and the following night at length. The agent was not quite sure whether he was in a position at present to make any definite arrangements on the part of the owner.

"The first step is to let the house," he said, "though I have no instructions, and it is some considerable time since I have heard from my client. He sent his live-in maid."

"Can't you give us his address?"

Verner replied, "and let us write to him direct. It would save time."

"Then I'll forward the information to the agent explained. 'My client wanders about from place to place, and I haven't the remotest idea where to find him. However, I'll do my best.'

"You might tell us his name," Verner said.

"Certainly. His name is Mr. La Porte."

"What do you make of it?" Verner said, when once more he and Gordon were in the street. "I see you have forgotten the name, but I can't imagine. Don't you remember my telling you that the original owner of the Four Finger Mine who was murdered by the Dutchmen, Van Fort, was called 'Fenwick'?"

CHAPTER XI

An Unexpected Move.

On the whole the discovery was startling enough. It proved to demand explanation, but when Verner himself Bates must have been in some way connected with the one time unfortunate owner of the Four Finger Mine. This was very likely said to the two friends who dwelt the street together. Verner paused presently, and stood as if an idea had occurred to him.

"I think I know what that something will come of this," he said. "I had a great mind to go back to the agents and try to get the key of the empty house for some pretext or other."

"What do you want it for?" Gordon asked.

"I am not sure that I want it for anything," Verner admitted. "I have a vague idea of a money theory, that I am on the right track, and that I may be wrong, especially as I am dealing with so unscrupulous an opponent as Fenwick. All the same, I think I'll start round about and offer this office this afternoon and get the key. Sooner or later I shall want a town house, and I don't see why the Portuguese Spanish house shouldn't suit me very well."

Verner was true to his intention, and later in the afternoon was once more in touch with the agent.

"Do you really want to get the place?" he asked.

"Well, upon my word, sir, I'm not quite sure," the agent replied. "As I said before, it is such a difficult matter to get in contact with the owner."

"But unless he wanted to let it, why did you put it into your hands?" Verner asked. "You can try to communicate with him, and if you have time if you let me have the keys to take measurements and get estimates for the decoration and so on."

"With every you references you require."

"Oh, there can be no objection to that," the agent replied. "Yes, you can have the keys now if you like. You are the best likely to run away with the place."

Verner departed presently with the keys in his possession, and made his way back to the hotel. He had hardly reached his room when he was joined in with another man. This was from Verna, with an urgent request that Verner would see her at once, and an assurance that there would be no danger in his coming up to the suite of rooms occupied by Mark Fenwick. Verner lost no time in answering this message. He felt vaguely that he somehow knew that this must be something serious, for he would not have ventured to tell him, in this sudden manner. He could not quite understand, how it was that he could call at Fenwick's residence at such risk. However he hesitated no longer, and knocked at the outer door of the self-contained rooms, which summons was promptly answered by Verna herself.

"You can come in," she said. "I am absolutely alone." Mr. Fenwick has gone off in a great hurry with all his assistants, and my own maid will not be back for some time."

"But there is no chance of Fenwick catching up with Verner? All my things would be ruined. My dearest girl, why don't you leave him and come to me? I declare it makes me miserable to know that you are constantly in contact with such a person as that. It isn't as if you have any relation to him."

"Thank goodness, I am no relation at all," Verna replied. "It is not for my own sake that I endure all this humiliation."

"Then, why endure it?" Verner urged.

"Because I am very fond of myself. There is someone else whom I have to look after and shield from harm. The day you will come to me, my health will not be good, because my husband is dead. But, because I do not bring you here to talk about myself. There are other and more urgent matters. There is probably something you would like to say to me. Not long after breakfast this morning, Mr. Fenwick was sitting here reading the papers, when he suddenly rose in a state of agitation, and began sending telegrams right and left. I am certain that there was terribly disturbing intelligence in that paper, but that is not the kind of paper I care for. I have looked everywhere for it and in vain. No sooner were the telegrams dispatched than the three calls came in, and with Mr. Fenwick calls his clerks, and all his callers and things together, and sent them off by express vans. Mr. Fenwick told me that everything was done to the letter, and I am sure that he has been very busy indeed."

"Don't you remember that night in the Bowery when I was fortunate enough to help you lay hands on the notorious criminal?" Verner asked.

"Bless me, if it isn't Mr. Verner," the other cried. "This is my friend, Grady. I dare say you have heard of him."

"Of course I have," Verner replied. "Mr. Grady is quite as clever in his way as you are yourself. I am sure that he is a good fellow, who took a keen interest in crime and criminals, and some of my experiences in New York would make a remarkable volume."

CONDITIONS OF LIVING

WORKING CONDITIONS MORE FAVORABLE IN AMERICA

Relative Cost of Living is Less on This Side of the Atlantic in Comparison to Earnings—Habit of Spending is Greater in America Than in England—Shorter Working Hours.

London.—Copies of the report on the cost of living in American cities based on inquiries made in 28 representative towns by officials of the British board of trade were circulated in parliament recently.

The report of 533 pages covers questions of the working classes, including hours of work, prices of food, clothing and rates of wages in States, compiled for purposes of comparison with the condition of workers in Great Britain and other countries.

The report concluded that "The cost of food and rent combined is 52 per cent. greater in the United States than in England and Wales, but men here have relative charges on the working class which have been met with weekly wages, which are as 230 to 100."

The report pointed out that this ratio of money-making is more than twice and one-fourth times as great as in England and Wales, and "Makes possible a comfortable existence, convenience and minor luxuries."

It is both nominally and really greater than that enjoyed by a corresponding class in this country, although the cost of living is less than that enjoyed by the same class of expenditure, to some extent necessary and to some extent voluntarily adopted in accordance with a different and higher standard of material comfort.

The report notes that although it of spending is greater in America than in England and Wales, the American nature is more extravagant and great wastefulness often results, it is a fact that those who desire to live well in America can and do save more easily in the States than in England because of the larger income. In the matter of the hours of skilled workers in the building trades in America has been a movement of about six hours weekly compared to the English, and the unskilled have an advantage of about 3½ hours.

American composers work about 48 hours weekly as compared to 52½ hours for the English composer. In the case of writing trades, on the other hand, Americans exceed English by three weeks weekly.

Those who favor a tariff for Great Britain make great capital of the report, claiming it as a positive proof of the advantage of protection.

INDICATIONS OF RECORD ENTRY

The Immigration Rush at North Port Is in Full Swing—April Promising.

North Port, Sask.—Whether the reciprocity pact becomes law or not the "American Invasion" of the Canadian west during the last year has doubtless been a factor in the North Port, which last year was the main gateway for American settlers, earlier this year, last year, owing to the early opening of spring, the most phenomenal rush was during the months of March and April, when over 1,000 came through.

The year ending the same month something less than 600 cars passed, but this year will exceed last year, judging by the present activity along the trans-Canada trail.

On May 3, there pulled out from the Soo yards, Portl, N. D., into the C. P. R. yards, North Port, Sask., a solid train of 54 cars of meat, grain, lumber, coal, etc., but a sum-total of what is to follow.

Long Journey Made by a Collie Dog

Edmonton.—A dog named Eddie, a Belton Centre near Edmonton, Quebec, was the phenomenal journey made by a thoroughbred collie dog brought to A. Brill, a veterinarian.

The dog was found by Brill from the east and a month after disappeared, nothing being heard of it for 16 months. Then, on June 1, he found the dog, which had traveled alone, and which, it is believed, was an extremely nervous animal, was an authorized capital of $2,000,000 formed a few years ago to acquire the Comptoir Belton and Paup Kiddie-Knightsbridge district, Ontario.

The value of the newly found diamond is estimated at $17,000, which bears no resemblance with the rest of the great gem and out of all relation to the weight. Presumably the figures cables are inaccurate.

Mounting Police for Coronation

Calgary.—The Royal Mounted Police force of Canada is honored by having the largest contingent come from its ranks.

Hood Worm Feared

London.—Following are some further coronation arrangements:

June 30.—Special medals presented to overseas troops at Buckingham palace.

July 10.—Premiers attend colonial secretary's garden party at Nunchun park, Oxford.

July 11.—Coronation of Waterloo-Calgary troops attend service at St. Paul's; Roman Catholic members high mass at Westminster cathedral.

On coronation night, June 22, three thousand ladies will be in all over Great Britain and Ireland.

UNIQUE GIFT TO KING GEORGE

A Great Collection of Rare South Animals For His Majesty—Some Have Arrived

London.—Rapid progress is being made with the collection of South African animals destined for presentation to King George on the double occasion of his coronation and of the establishment of the Union of South Africa.

According to the latest information from South Africa the collection already includes representatives of the following species:

rhinoceros, elephant, antelope, ostrich, zebra, sable, antelope, impala, oribi, bushbuck and duiker, warthog and bushpig, jumping hare, baboons, lions, leopards, two (greater, secreted) and wild goats, various fowls, francolin, quail, kites, eagles, hawks, crocodile, pythons, venomous snakes, vipers, adders, cobras, mambas, monitor lizards, horned toads, etc.

Otter—With the object of determining what portions of Canada's vast forest wealth should be set aside as non-government reserves, has been home with the party of Mr. John Macmillan, president of the Rocky mountains, parties will be sent out by the forestry department to the Peace River, the Peace River, British Columbia, parts of Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

A party will also leave about the end of the month for Hudson's Bay to examine the timber resources of the projected Hudson's Bay railway.

Meanwhile, what is so far the most important animal to be included in the collection has already reached Rancheria Park.

This is an example of the remarkable road from the Antarctic seas.

The fur is close-set and rigid, of a greenish-yellow stripe on the sides of the pelt, and the hair is short and fine, the head feet very small.

Grain Markets

(The Sovereign Grain Co. correspondence.)

CALGARY, Alta., April 18.—Chicago wheat closed 15¢ lower for May and 3¢ lower for July. Liverpool advanced as much as this market gained between Thursday's close and Monday. "Broomhall's Crop Summary was on the whole rather bullish. Primary receipts are slightly larger than a year ago, but still light." Minneapolis stocks continue to decrease rapidly. The strength in the cables gave a steady market early with slight improvement in the price. Local grain dealers bear the brunt of local feeding operations themselves, the grain sold off sharply. We do not see anything to change the position of May wheat and would not feel like selling that delivery short. Hessian oil claims from Indiana and claims of abundant storage in the southwest, but as a rule traders are disposed to regard crop prospects as highly flattering. We hardly look for any persistent decline—foreign markets will be a factor and unless they give way, our decline won't go far. Most of the day bears were nervous.

Oats sympathized with the weakness in wheat and corn to a certain extent. County offerings were a little more free but as farmers are in the fields the prospects of future receipts seem slight.

BUSINESS LOCALS

(Locals in this column one cent a word.)

Highest cash price paid for eggs. A. A. Perrin, egg merchant, Didsbury.

N. Weicker announces that he will in future take in hogs every Monday. Top prices will be paid.

For Rent—Three rooms all nicely papered and in good repair. Apply Reitzel & Kalbfleisch.

For Sale—Buff Orpington eggs for setting. Apply Mrs. H. Sanderman, residence northwest of Didsbury.

1 1/2 section of land well improved, 250 acres under cultivation. Will rent or sell. Call G. B. Sexsmith, $400.00 to loan on real estate. Mortgages renewed. No commission charged. G. B. Sexsmith, Massey Harris Office, Didsbury.

Lost—Lady's gold watch with fine rope chain attached. Name "Jennie" engraved on watch. Chain broken. Finder suitably rewarded by returning to Pioneer office.

Chopping at the mill Mondays and Thursdays. Try cracked wheat for your little chicks. We have just installed an oat flaker which rolls the oats and makes it impossible for oats to be fed with any waste, and at the same time no dust for your horse to choke on. Try it next time.

The Supper a Success

The supper given on Easter Monday night by the Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian church in the Opera House was a great success in every way. A large number of people took advantage of the opportunity to spend a social time together which helped to make the affair one of the social events of the season. The tables were tastefully decorated with numerous plants and Easter lilies and altogether presented a very inviting appearance. The tables were presided over by Mesdames Hiebert, Stauffer, Martin, Haag, Sexsmith, Scott, Osmund, and Sanderson, assisted by several young ladies. The musical part of the affair consisted of piano selections by Miss D. Stark, Mr. A. Welser, and Miss M. Studer. While Mr. L. Staudt and Mr. C. Hiebert favored the audience with mandoline, violin, and grimo-phone selections.

Looking for Franchise

J. M. Reed, Town Clerk, has received a letter from a Toronto firm of electrical engineers enquiring if they can acquire a privately owned electric lighting plant and if so they would obtain the necessary capital for the same if a satisfactory proposition covering a franchise, etc., was submitted to them.

It is also understood that enquiries have been made of one of the business men in town by a company who will install a plant if a fifteen year franchise is given.

"Our baby cries for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes Mrs. T. B. Kendrick, Rosalia, Ga. "It is the best cough remedy on the market for coughs, colds and grippe. For sale by dealers everywhere."

To the Municipalities

Who are wanting road graders or any kind of road making machinery, get our prices and terms. G. B. Sexsmith.

In cases of rheumatism relief from pain makes sleep and rest possible. This may be obtained by applying Chamberlain's Liniment. For sale by dealers everywhere.

Wife (reading from a heading in a Toronto paper): Here's an article on "Women's Work for Feeble-minded."

Husband (with a groan): I'd like to know what the women have ever done for the feeble-minded.

Wife (sweetly): They usually marry them, dear.

Lame Shoulder is nearly always due to rheumatism of the muscles, and quickly yields to the free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. For sale by dealers everywhere.
